ROI-NJ Names Partner Daniella Gordon a 2022 Influencer

Daniella Gordon, partner in Armstrong Teasdale's Princeton and Philadelphia offices, has been selected as a 2022 Women in Business Influencer by ROI-NJ. She is part of a select group of individuals that the New Jersey business news platform identified as among the state's top women leaders across a wide array of industries and fields. ROI-NJ describes Gordon as "a go-to lawyer for white-collar matters and a variety of high stakes commercial disputes."

Co-leader of the firm's Construction Services practice, Gordon's practice includes internal investigations and white-collar criminal defense, as well as commercial construction litigation and employment defense. Her clients span various industries, including health care, construction, media and technology.
