Fiamingo Joins McNees in Legal Project Management Coordinator Role

Harrisburg, Pa. – (January 22, 2018) McNees Wallace & Nurick LLC announces the hiring of Nicole Fiamingo in the role of Legal Project Management Coordinator effective January 2, 2018. As the Legal Project Manager for McNees Wallace & Nurick, Nicole acts as both a facilitator and developer of implementation plans for client-facing projects in close partnership with the Firm's attorney and administration teams.

This position will work directly with lawyers as we develop responses to RFPs, price our product and execute on the tasks associated with any particular legal project. "For a firm of our size and our geographic area, we believe we are the first firm to employ a dedicated legal project management person," David M. Kleppinger, chairman of McNees stated. "This hiring was an outgrowth of our long-term strategic planning process designed to deliver optimal quality and value to our Clients well into the future. Nicole will be critical to that service delivery."

Nicole completed her MBA from La Salle University's (Philadelphia, PA) pilot 1-year intense honors program. She comes to McNees with 5 years of project management and business development experience.

Nicole is an active member on several local non-profit organizations including serving as a Board Member for The Rachel's Way (a gluten and dairy-free food pantry). She teaches online business courses for her Alma Mater, and in her free time, enjoys practicing daily yoga. She has a BS in Business from Keystone College, summa cum laude and an MBA in Marketing from LaSalle University.
