Boyd & Jenerette Expands Again

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (March 23, 2010) – The law firm of Boyd & Jenerette has expanded its Fort Lauderdale regional office once again. The expansion includes the addition of two partners and the establishment of a Family Law Department. John Ross, formerly of the Yoss Firm, will head the Firm's first Family Law Department and has over 20 years of experience in family law litigation. Glen McClary, managing partner of Boyd & Jenerette said, "John is an exceptional lawyer and we are excited to bring his expertise in family law to the firm."

Paul Woodson, also formerly with the Yoss Firm, will join the Firm's Construction Law Department. With over 20 years of experience in representing general contractors, developers, and condominium associations, Paul's practice will continue to focus on construction as well as commercial law. Elizabeth Howard, head of the Firm's Construction Department said, "We are very excited to have Paul join us. He brings with him a vast background in construction and stellar litigation experience. He will also assist us in expanding the services we are able to offer to our South Florida clients."
