Arthur Lefco Named 2016 Legal Malpractice "Lawyer of the Year" in Philadelphia by Best Lawyers in America®

Philadelphia, PA – Arthur W. Lefco, professional liability attorney in the Philadelphia office of Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin, has been named the 2016 Legal Malpractice Law – Defendants "Lawyer of the Year" for Philadelphia by Best Lawyers in America®. Mr. Lefco was additionally recognized by Best Lawyers in the areas of Commercial Litigation and Defendants' Professional Malpractice Law.

Best Lawyers began designating "Lawyers of the Year" in high-profile legal practice areas in 2009. Only a single lawyer in each legal practice specialty per designated metropolitan area is selected, based on voting averages received during peer-review assessments. The designation reflects the high level of respect a lawyer has earned among other leading lawyers in the same communities and the same practice areas for their abilities, professionalism and integrity.

With more than 40 years of experience, Mr. Lefco is a highly accomplished trial lawyer in the realm of professional liability, coverage and commercial litigation. Well-known in the Philadelphia legal community, his fellow lawyers and insurers routinely seek his advice, counsel and representation.

Mr. Lefco's service to the bar and the public in law-related fields, such as the Pennsylvania Disciplinary Board, the American Law Institute, the University of Pennsylvania Law School and the Philadelphia and Pennsylvania Bar Associations, has been extensive. He often writes and lectures in the areas of lawyers' professional liability and professional responsibilities.

A graduate of Michigan State University and the University of Pennsylvania Law School, he has been recognized as a Pennsylvania Super Lawyer for the past ten years and is rated AV® Preeminent™ by LexisNexis Martindale-Hubbell.

MARSHALL DENNEHEY'S EDWARD RADZIK NAMED A FELLOW OF THE LITIGATION COUNSEL OF AMERICA

New York, NY – Edward C. Radzik, shareholder in the Maritime Litigation Practice Group in the Manhattan office of Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin, has been named a fellow of the Litigation Counsel of America (LCA). The LCA is a trial lawyer honorary society composed of less than one-half of one percent of American lawyers. Fellows are selected based upon excellence and accomplishment in litigation, both at the trial and appellate levels, and superior ethical reputation.

For 35 years, Mr. Radzik has focused almost exclusively in admiralty and maritime litigation, handling claims for cargo loss and damage, ship collisions, allisions, groundings, shipboard fires, hull and machinery failures, marine insurance disputes, personal injury and other maritime claims. His background as a marine engineer and graduate of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy, enhances his legal practice in his ability to analyze and respond to the myriad technical questions that arise in the marine insurance arena. Mr. Radzik is additionally experienced in ADR, and he has been appointed as both a mediator and an arbitrator in a wide range of maritime cases.

Mr. Radzik is an active member of the Maritime Law Association of the United States and is a member of the Carriage of Goods Committee Working Group studying the United States' anticipated ratification of the UNCITRAL Convention for a new regime for cargo liability that will become known as the Rotterdam Rules. Rated AV-Preeminent by LexisNexis Martindale-Hubbell, he is recognized in Chambers USA and Best Lawyers in America as a leading lawyer in shipping litigation, and he has been named a New York Metro Super Lawyer for several years. He received his J.D. from the University of New Hampshire School of Law.

Marshall Dennehey Named a "Best Places to Work" by the Philadelphia Business Journal For Third Consecutive Year

Philadelphia, PA – The Philadelphia Business Journal has named Marshall Dennehey Warner Coleman & Goggin one of its 2015 Best Places to Work award recipients in the Philadelphia region. The award recognizes the company's achievements in creating a positive work environment that attracts and retains employees through a combination of benefits, working conditions and company culture. Marshall Dennehey, which was the only law firm named to the list in 2015, was also recognized in 2013 and 2014.

Hundreds of companies submitted nominations to the program, which ranks the top employers according to scores given to the companies by their own workers. Marshall Dennehey's Delaware Valley locations, including its Philadelphia headquarters and offices in King of Prussia, Doylestown and Cherry Hill, were included in the survey.

"I always like to tell people that this is a firm that really cares about its employees, and being selected for this award for the third year in a row validates that our employees think this is a great place to work," said Marshall Dennehey President and CEO, Thomas A. Brophy. "We take great pride in our company culture and values, and will continue to do whatever we can to maintain and improve the working environment so that all of our employees, from attorneys to support staff, are engaged and have the opportunity to succeed."
