“Officiating Safely” For Lacrosse Officials’ National Convention

Alan Goldberger of Montclair, a partner in the Millburn New Jersey law firm of Brown Moskowitz & Kallen, P.C. and the author of “Sports Officiating: A Legal Guide,” will be a featured speaker at the 2012 US Lacrosse National Convention Men’s Officials Council Program in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in mid-January.

Goldberger will present two programs at the Convention. “Officiating Safely - Legal Issues in Lacrosse Officiating” is a practical guide to managing risk for Lacrosse referees and umpires. “Protecting Your Local Association – For Officers and Board Members” is an introduction to the legal and business environment of administering sports officiating programs. The US Lacrosse National Convention provides the sport’s largest educational opportunity, with over 5,000 coaches, officials, administrators and vendors in attendance each year.

A former baseball, basketball and football official, Goldberger is counsel to many sports officials’ organizations, including the International Association of Approved Basketball Officials, Inc., the New Jersey State Baseball Umpires Association, Inc., and the State Basketball Officials Association of New Jersey, Inc. He is a Past President of the North Jersey Board of Approved Basketball Officials, Inc. Goldberger has presented seminars and workshops to officials, coaches, athletic program administrators, recreation professionals, and attorneys nationwide.
